Dear Voter,

First of all, thank you for partaking in our American democracy by exercising your right to vote!

I'm your neighbor, Ojaala Ahmad. I'm proud to call Anaheim home. One of the things unique about our great city is that it is home to people of many diverse communities, people of all backgrounds - each thriving side by side, and contributing to our economy and social and political fabric.

Just as we find pride and strength in our diversity, we need representation in our city governance that reflects the diversity of Anaheim's communities to better serve its residents.

For over ten years, I have worked with coalition groups, civil liberties groups, the media, elected officials and residents to champion causes like college accessibility and affordability, addressing houselessness, protecting our constitutional rights and religious freedoms, advancement of women and racial equality, among other causes.

I'm also honored to have served as your Anaheim Housing and Community Development Commissioner.

A community advocate and public servant like me, who has a track record of delivering results with honesty, transparency and care is what Anaheim residents need.

I'd be honored to serve you in City Hall and ask for your vote.
