Director of Marketing

A strong community begins with neighbors who feel connected.

For more than 20 years, I have called Buena Park home. In serving eight years as a Commissioner, I have helped support programs and community traditions that bring neighbors together, celebrate our diversity, and enrich the quality of life that makes Buena Park a special place to live.

Professionally, I serve as Director of Marketing Communications for Joneca Company, where I've learned to think strategically, bring ideas to life, build consensus among diverse stakeholders, and manage projects with accountability and attention to detail. Just as important, my lifelong passion for the arts has taught me that creativity and innovation often reveal solutions that others overlook. I believe the strongest leadership combines practical thinking with the courage to imagine new possibilities.

I am passionate about enhancing our quality of life, strengthening public safety and our city's emergency preparedness, and cultivating a community where people feel connected and valued.

I see serving on the City Council as an opportunity to give back to the city that has given me so much. I believe the best ideas begin with listening, and I will always lead with integrity, collaboration, and a genuine commitment to Buena Park residents.
