

JEREMIAH WILLIAMS PEARSON III
CITY OF SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO
MEMBER OF THE CITY COUNCIL

In my travels as a United States Marine, I have experienced many wonderful cities. Yet I have chosen San Juan Capistrano as my final residence for many reasons, including the city's charm and the friendliness of its residents. I now choose to return the graciousness this city has shown my family by contributing my qualifications in leadership and strategic planning as a member of our City Council.

In both hostile and peaceful times, I served our nation in positions of leadership, commanding organizations consisting of tens of thousands of men and women—with budgets in the billions of dollars. I directed NASA's manned space program for numerous Space Shuttle missions, achieving the development of a multi-billion-dollar shuttle 10% under budget.

As a Lockheed Martin IMS senior vice president, I developed a critical element in Orange County's transportation system. I am also experienced in municipal planning, logistics, financial management and inter-government relations.

As an educator—an adjunct professor of space mathematics—I fully appreciate the necessity of promoting a well-founded educational experience for our children.

It's time for a new perspective on our City Council, and I would be most honored to serve my adopted community in this capacity.
